What happens when a person dies?

We have a funeral for the person.....

After a person dies, we have a funeral.

At the funeral,

the person's body is placed in a special bed called a casket.

Also at a funeral, family and friends come to say goodbye to the person. It is ok to feel sad and cry.

A service will be held where someone talks about the life and death of the person. Everyone sits quietly and listens.

The casket is carried out and placed in a special car called a hearse.

The hearse takes the casket to the cemetery.

All the other people follow in their cars.

This is called a funeral procession.

A speech or prayer is made at the cemetery.
Then the casket is placed into the ground.
Everyone must say goodbye for the last time.

The angels take the person to be with God in Heaven.
